About Us

The Jesuits—The Society of Jesus

The Jesuits are a dynamic, multicultural Catholic religious order serving a worldwide mission. Today, there are over 16,000 Jesuit priests, brothers, and young men in training in over 123 countries, from Afghanistan to Nicaragua and Zimbabwe. Working in partnership with lay people, Jesuits in Malta are active in education, spirituality centres, intellectual work, presence and service among marginalised persons, and other works such as the Jesuit Refugee Service, youth formation and in support to parishes. Jesuits from the Democratic Republic of Congo, Italy, Kenya, and Ukraine currently serve alongside Maltese Jesuits in Malta. Maltese Jesuits serve in Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Ethiopia, Egypt, India, Lebanon, Italy, Tanzania, the United Kingdom, and the United States.

The first small group of Jesuits called themselves Society of Jesus—or rather, Compañía de Jesús—Spanish for Company of Jesus. They thought of themselves as Companions of Jesus, who would help him in his mission throughout the world.

The Jesuits originated from a group of three young men who were room-mates while studying at the University of Paris in the early sixteenth century—St Ignatius Loyola, St Francis Xavier, and St Peter Favre. Ignatius was a flamboyant, determined Basque nobleman who went through a life-changing experience that drew him very close to God. Leaving behind wealth and fame, he set out as a poor pilgrim, and inspired others to dedicate their lives to the service of God and their fellow human beings. Pope Paul III approved this group of priests as a new religious order in 1540.

Some 2,000 Jesuits and 87,000 of their colleagues provide education to nearly 2 million students in an astonishing variety of school settings, from refugee camps to schools like our own. Many other Jesuits and lay professors teach thousands of students in Jesuit universities and colleges throughout the world.

We do things differently

Jesuit Education in the 21st Century

In following what St Ignatius teaches us, the main element at school is to learn to be magnanimous. Magnanimity: this virtue of the great and the small (Non coerceri maximo contineri minimo, divinum est), which always makes us look at the horizon. What does being magnanimous mean? It means having a great heart, having greatness of mind; it means having great ideals, the wish to do great things to respond to what God asks of us. Hence also, for this very reason, to do well the routine things of every day and all the daily actions, tasks, meetings with people; doing the little everyday things with a great heart open to God and to others. It is therefore important to cultivate human formation with a view to magnanimity. School does not only broaden your intellectual dimension but also your human one. And I think that Jesuit schools take special care to develop human virtues: loyalty, respect, faithfulness and dedication.

Vision Statement

The educational community at St Aloysius College is inspired by Christ's teachings and a faith that promotes evangelical justice.

Through Ignatian Pedagogy, we strive to holistically empower all students to excel in their abilities and develop their conscience to discern God's will in their lives.

Together we aspire to foster compassionate and responsible men and women with others and for others, committed to the poor and persons in need.

We promote dialogue with people of other cultures and religious traditions in a common effort to build a peaceful and ecologically just world.

ST ALOYSIUS COLLEGE welcomes you to the global network of Jesuit schools, colleges and universities. St Aloysius College is over 100 years young. The College opened as a school for boys at the behest of Pope St Pius X, on 8 October 1907. St Aloysius is part of the worldwide commitment by the Society of Jesus in the education and formation of young people. Jesuit education in Malta dates back to the foundation of the Collegium Melitense, the forerunner of the University of Malta, in 1592.

In the 19th century, English Jesuits established St Ignatius College, in what is now St Julians. They had to relinquish it in favour of a new college for immigrant Catholic boys in England.

Our College is named after St Aloysius Gonzaga (1568-91), a Jesuit of noble origin who died serving the victims of the plague that afflicted Rome in his time. St Aloysius is the patron saint of young people. In recent years, he was declared patron saint of AIDS sufferers and AIDS care-givers.

The most recent school to bear the name of St Aloysius is located in Kibera, Africa's largest slum, in the Kenyan capital Nairobi. This school represents hope and a future for AIDS orphans, and is run by the Christian Life Communities

(CLC) in partnership with the Jesuits.

Our Sixth Form started in 1962 and was established as a co-educational institution ten years later. The present Sixth Form building was inaugurated in 1991. Students are prepared for the MATSEC certificate and to obtain the necessary qualifications for entry into universities and higher education institutions in Malta and abroad. Since 2008, St Aloysius also has its own primary school, in Balzan.

The combined student population of the College amounts to almost 1,600 (over 500 in each school). The College has a combined staff of 340 persons.

St Aloysius College looks to the future with hope. It seeks to form students who genuinely live their Christian faith while taking an open-minded approach to contemporary issues.

We make a firm commitment to orient young people towards the ultimate truth in their search for meaning. Together with them, we seek to address global concerns such as poverty, peace, the environment, migration, cultural diversity, climate change, and the responsible use of shared resources.

Vision

Our Vision

The experience at St Aloysius encourages students to strive for academic excellence, self-confidence, respect for others, personal faith development, care for the marginalised, and a spirit of sacrifice and self-giving.

To this end, we favour collaboration over competition, and teamwork over individual advancement. St Aloysius offers a broad spectrum of possibilities for faith development, volunteering, sport, theatre, music, appreciation of nature and the outdoors, as well as contact with the poor and exposure to the harsh reality of poverty.

Three educational streams are offered at the Sixth Form in the areas of Arts and Humanities, Business and Computing, Maths and Science, with a wide variety of course options aimed at preparing students for further studies. The College actively encourages students to deliver nothing short of their very best in their field of study. The curriculum comprises several components that promote critical thinking, the acquisition of knowledge and the willingness to be of service. The respective programmes seek to favour the germination of ideas and to offer space for creativity.

The Sixth Form building has spacious lecture and tutorial rooms, an assembly hall and a conference room. There are physics, biology and chemistry labs, a library, a study area, canteen, rehearsal room, and a students' common room. In addition, students may make use of the College sports facilities in the Sports Complex. The College also has its own theatre, with a seating capacity of 600 persons and a church that is fronted by a beautiful garden.

Through its Information and Communication Technology policy, St Aloysius College aims to promote technological competence among all students. Wi-Fi coverage around the campus enables staff and students to use personal devices.

Selection for Admission

1. In selecting students for admission into the Sixth Form, the Admissions Board goes strictly by merit. Points are awarded to each candidate depending on the grades obtained in the subjects at SEC and/or IGCSE (Edexcel/Cambridge) examinations chosen at Advanced or Intermediate Level (see page 33).

2. In cases where 2 or more students get equal number of points, the following criteria are used to decide the rank order:

i. the best grades in the 2 subjects chosen at Advanced level (or their equivalent average grade).

ii. the best grades in the 3 subjects chosen at Intermediate level (or their equivalent average grade).

Following a tie after (i) and (ii) above are considered, a ballot will be drawn. The date of the draw will be communicated to the eligible candidates, who will be invited to attend the ballot.

3. The allocation of points on subjects chosen at Advanced and/or Intermediate Level, where no SEC/IGCSE passes are required, is worked out on the average grade of the SEC/IGCSE subjects not chosen at Advanced or Intermediate Level and on which points have not yet been allocated.

4. For selection purposes the College does not consider more than nine subjects at SEC/IGCSE.

5. Students from St Aloysius College and children of full-time staff of St Aloysius College in employment for a minimum of one year, are eligible for admission into Sixth Form if they obtain a total of 145 points and satisfy the admission requirements (p. 10-11). Those who obtain less than 145 points are placed in order of merit with students coming from other schools.
6. Candidates with an unfavourable assessment of conduct on their school leaving certificate will not be admitted.
7. Upgrading of marks as a result of a revision of paper will not be considered for entry into the Sixth Form if received after the closing date of applications.
8. No re-sit in any subject will be considered for entry into the Sixth Form after the official Sixth Form results indicating the order of merit, have been published.

Faith is celebrated in personal
prayer and service

1. The Christian formation of students is a primary goal of St Aloysius College. This is achieved through the entire educational concept endorsed by the College and, in particular, through the Chaplaincy. The College actively encourages Catholic students to deepen their understanding and practice of the faith. Students from other faith backgrounds are welcomed with respect and we seek to accompany each one on her/his way to God.

2. The Chaplaincy in a Jesuit College seeks to contribute to the all-round well-being of young people through Ignatian spirituality, in an atmosphere of community and with a spirit of service.

3. Holy Mass is celebrated in the Sixth Form Chapel at 07.15, before the beginning of lectures, from Monday to Thursday. All are welcome to join in for Mass at whatever time they arrive at school. The Eucharist builds us up in communion with God and with one another. The Chapel is an oasis of peace and quiet throughout the day.

Catholic Formation

4. On Fridays, Mass is celebrated at 11.15. During this time, no other lectures or activities take place. Students participate actively in the preparation of the liturgy. During the Friday Mass, students and teachers come together as a community of faith.
5. The Chaplain accompanies students in their faith journey.
8. Students and their families are welcome to join in the College liturgies at Christmas and Easter. We mark Ash Wednesday and other occasions in the Church calendar, such as Advent and Lent with prayerful liturgies .
9. Awareness raising on poverty, human rights, peace, fair trade, forced migration and ecological

Catholic Formation

6. In collaboration with the Christian Life Community (CLC) and the Eucharistic Youth Movement (EYM), the Chaplaincy offers opportunities for growth in a faith community through the establishment of such communities in the Sixth Form.
 7. Throughout the year, students participate on class-by-class basis in Soul Space, a one-day spiritual formation activity held during school hours.
- justice is integral to the mission of the Sixth Form Chaplaincy. Stands and displays offer an insight into some of these issues. Voluntary work projects elsewhere in Malta and abroad, offered in collaboration with the Jesuit-run University Chaplaincy, make it possible to articulate the faith through concrete service to the poor.

St Aloysius College

Social Responsibility Programme

Serving the poor and opening up to the needs of others is an essential component of the all-round education offered at St Aloysius College. All First Year students take part in the Social Responsibility Programme. This is not a question of adding to a schedule that already has multiple obligations. It is rather the taking on of a lifestyle that takes other human beings into account, especially those in greatest need, and ultimately leads to God.

Students may carry out their duties related to the Social Responsibility Programme in learning support programmes for children, service to persons with disabilities, homes for the elderly, service to their parish community, Christian youth groups, environmental initiatives, and in similar undertakings approved by the Management.

Students are encouraged to go beyond a narrow view of fulfilling the 50-hour placement, and to engage generously in other opportunities. The following is a list of settings in which students may carry out their Social Responsibility Programme.

- Children's Programmes in a variety of settings offering learning support at the College or in organisations run by religious orders, local councils or government agencies;
- Youth Ministry, through the Chaplaincy, the Jesuits, and a variety of other groups and communities sponsored by youth movements and parish churches;
- Non-Governmental Organisations and other voluntary organisations serving people in need;
- Homes for the Elderly ;
- Environment Protection and Awareness Projects within the College and elsewhere;
- Services within the College;
- Other areas where service may be required, by prior agreement with the Management.

The goal of Jesuit education is the formation of men and women for others, people of competence, conscience and compassionate commitment.

Ignatian Spirituality

The spirituality of St Ignatius Loyola that defines Jesuit identity, underlies who we are and what we do as the educational community of St Aloysius College.

Finding God in All Things

God reveals Himself to us in all of reality. This was the basic intuition of St Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Jesuits. God can be found in all things. God is present in all of human existence. The world and all it contains reveals God to us. It was out of this conviction that Ignatius became known as a “contemplative in action.” This translates itself into a dedication to human dignity from a Catholic, Jesuit faith perspective.

The Examen

If God indeed can be found in all things, then human beings can discern God’s presence in the world. The Examen is a prayerful reflection on one’s day in order to notice where God was present in one’s behaviour, thoughts, feelings, actions, relationships, work, play, and so forth, so that one may respond with grateful generosity.

Two Standards

We ought not to be naïve about the presence of evil in the world. In the Spiritual Exercises, St Ignatius proposes a meditation on the standard of Christ and the standard of Satan. We are called to discern, to serve Christ under the standard of the cross, and to reject resolutely what is evil.

AMDG and Magis

For most people decisions involve a choice from among various goods. AMDG stands for Ad Maiorem Dei Gloriam, that is, “for the Greater Glory of God.” AMDG reminds us that we are called to seek that which will give greater glory, in other words, what is most especially conducive to the praise, worship, and service of God. Magis conveys the sense of “more.” The magis is not a question of doing more, but of carefully discerning what is more and especially fitting in the service of God.

The Call of the King

Christ calls each one of us to offer our unique talents and gifts in the service of God and God’s kingdom. This call is personal. Each person has a unique mission; each is summoned by God by name. Attention to this unique calling is what gives a young person ultimate direction in life. You come alive to your mission by seeking God in prayer.

Ignatian Discernment

God’s voice can be discerned most clearly by a careful examination of one’s deepest, most authentic desires. God’s voice can also be discerned in a group setting: prayerful consideration of the movements of the Spirit in the group’s ongoing work, conversation, and prayer.

Cura Personalis

Cura personalis (care of the person) has been a characteristic of Jesuit education throughout its 450 years. Cura Personalis is the attentive concern given to each individual, taking into consideration that person’s whole self: body, mind, and soul. No aspect of what it means to be human ought to be neglected. This principle also implies that a human being must never be treated as a means to an end, but is always to be treated with respect as an individual man or woman, made in God’s image and likeness.

Ignatian Spirituality

A group of six diverse young adults, three women and three men, are smiling and holding croissants outdoors. They are dressed in casual clothing like hoodies and a denim jacket. The background shows green trees and a blue car. A green semi-transparent box is overlaid on the left side of the image.
